HOME USE RULES

All Books subject to recall

All borrowers must register in the library to borrow books for home use.

All books must be returned at end of college year for inspection and repairs.

Limited books must be returned within the four week limit and not renewed.

Students must return all books before leaving town. Officers should arrange for the return of books wanted during their absence from town.

Volumes of periodicals and of pamphlets are held in the library as much as possible. For special purposes they are given out for a limited time.

Borrowers should not use their library privileges for the benefit of other persons.

Books of special value and gift books, when the giver wishes it, are not allowed to circulate.

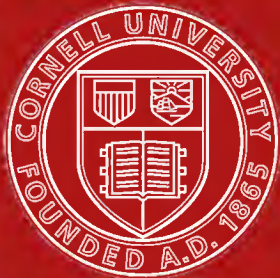

Readers are asked to report all cases of books marked or mutilated.

Do not deface books by marks and writing.

PREFATORY NOTE.

WHEN this catalogue was first handed over to the Press, it seemed not unlikely that it could be issued in a single volume which, if bulky, would not be unmanageable. As the printing proceeded, however, the prospective size of the book, with its Indexes and Introduction, became more formidable, and the Governing Body of Gonville and Caius College very kindly allowed the work to be divided into two volumes. The first, which I now submit, contains descriptions of 354 manuscripts, the large majority of which belong to the medieval period. My account of these is made entirely de novo: but in treating of the later paper books I have in many cases allowed J. J. Smith's¹ descriptions to stand practically unaltered. I have, indeed, corrected such errors as I perceived and added details which came to my knowledge: but Smith's work upon them remains the basis of mine. If this should prove a disappointment to students, I am sorry. I will only plead in the first place that Smith took much more trouble with these volumes than with the older books, and in the second place that many of them are of very slight interest.

In the second volume (which I hope may not be long delayed) will be found accounts of a rather larger number of manuscripts: but a majority of these are of late date. They include the heraldic collections of Dr John Knight. I hope to add the requisite Indexes, and also lists of donors and provenances. The tables of corresponding numbers in various catalogues appear in the present volume.

To any student who will do me the service of pointing out my mistakes I shall be really grateful. The division of this catalogue into two volumes affords a welcome opportunity for recording and correcting errors. The production of this first volume gives me a not less welcome opportunity of expressing my most grateful thanks to the Master and Fellows of Gonville and Caius College for allowing me to catalogue their manuscripts, and in particular to Professor J. S. Reid, Litt.D., for his unwearying kindness in affording me facilities for doing the work.

M. R. JAMES.

INTRODUCTION.

THE manuscripts belonging to Gonville and Caius College fall into the following very unequal divisions. First, the relics of the medieval collection: next, the books given by the second founder of the College, Dr Caius: in the third place, those given or bequeathed by William Moore in 1659: fourthly, the heraldic collections given about 1680 by Dr John Knight: fifthly, miscellaneous additions acquired in and after the sixteenth century. Upon each of these classes a few general remarks may be offered.

1. The relics of the medieval library. These exceed in number the analogous possessions of any other of our Colleges; they amount, according to my calculation, to upwards of 350 volumes. It is especially unfortunate that no early catalogue of this collection can now be found. Such an one as exists at Peterhouse would have been of great interest here, where what must be a very large proportion of the books is preserved¹.

Two volumes in this section of the Library (Nos. 16 and 63) are referred correctly, to all appearance, to Bishop Bateman as donor: two others (279 and 300) were certainly given by John of Terrington, "one of the original staff of Fellows, in 1351." Walter Elveden and Michael Causton in the fourteenth century, Walter Crome, John Beverley, William Grene, and Roger Marchall in the fifteenth, were among the most liberal contributors whom we can still trace. A complete list of the donors (of all periods) finds a place in this work.

2. The gifts of Dr John Caius are not very many, but their character and the importance of their donor claim for them a place apart. They include a Hebrew Bible (evidently once the property of a medieval Western scholar) which Caius had studied in his undergraduate days, and a group of medical and philosophical Greek manuscripts, some of which were most probably written specially for him in Italy, whence all of them seem to have come. None of these are earlier than the sixteenth century.

3. The collection of William Moore (a sketch of whose life will be found in Dr Venn's invaluable Biographical History of the College, vol. I, p. 192) is varied in character. It consisted originally of nearly 150 volumes, a few of which have gone astray, and it includes most of the books which are especially distinguished for age or beauty. Among the vellum manuscripts are some which came from Canterbury, Reading, Bury, Peterborough, and other greater abbeys, and several from the small Augustinian house of St Thomas of Lesnes or Westwood, near Woolwich. A very considerable part of the collection consists of historical and miscellaneous papers of the sixteenth and seventeenth centuries, of whose value I am not competent to form an estimate. These were described with somewhat special care by J. J. Smith in his Catalogue of 1849, and his evident interest in them makes it the more curious that he should have omitted all notice of their generous donor. One would not gather, so far as I can see, from anything in his volume that Moore had ever given a single manuscript to the College. The Oxford Catalogue of 1697 (which Smith used pretty extensively) very properly keeps Moore's benefaction separate from the earlier part of the library.

4. Dr John Knight's heraldic books are likewise separately catalogued in the Oxford volume, where they are reckoned as 65 in number. The descriptions of them are, however, so brief that it is difficult in several cases to identify the volumes with certainty. An index made by Knight himself (and printed by Smith at p. 306) affords some help; and on the whole it would seem that few if any of his books have been lost. There is in the Library a considerable mass of fragmentary and undigested papers, no doubt also given by Knight, relating to heraldic and genealogical matters. These I have cursorily inspected, and cannot believe that they would repay a more strict examination. Of Knight's career particulars will be found in Venn (I. 246).

5. The miscellaneous division includes a few books of high interest, notably the Greek Gospels which were once owned by Robert Grosseteste and were given to the College in 1567 by Thomas Hatcher. I may perhaps be forgiven for remarking that in this action Mr Hatcher, as a Kingsman, hardly showed that piety towards his own College which we know him to have cherished. He was the initiator of that very useful Register of Provosts, Fellows, and Scholars which, continued by various hands, has borne fruit in the works of Harwood and of Mr J. J. Withers. There are also one or two fine Bibles. But the bulk of this section consists of paper books; the medical collections of Dr Gostlin, the historical collections of Dr Brady, old College exercises, and other University and College records, unpublished treatises on Divinity and such matters, some sufficiently interesting, but a good many possessing only such claims to preservation as their not very high antiquity gives them. Most College libraries afford a home to some of these waifs, and they are to the cataloguer (the only being who is ever likely to look at them) rather a weariness of the flesh.

Something must now be said of the catalogues and documents already in print which relate to this Library.

Leland in the Collectanea (IV. 20) gives a list of some twenty tracts (not all separate volumes) which he had seen here: of these, five or six can be readily identified as still extant. Bale in the Index Scriptorum refers to about six books: all but one are still forthcoming. Thomas James in the Ecloga Oxonio-Cantabrigiensis (1600, pp. 98-111) is the first to give a complete list of the manuscripts. It is in two parts, the first of which is entitled "Libri MSS. in Bibliotheca Collegii," and contains 33 articles: but one of these (no. 31) comprises 11 volumes of Hugo de Vienna. The total number is therefore 43. The second and by far the larger division has this heading: "Libri quorum nomina sequuntur extant in Archiuis eiusdem Collegii." It contains 281 items. James's list thus comprises in all 324 volumes. Of these it is possible now to identify 42 in the first division and 202 in the second. But out of the somewhat large residue very few are to be reckoned as really missing: the fact is that my predecessor's descriptions do not allow me to proceed with certainty: "Liber Juris Canonici," "Justinianus," "Miscellanea Theologica Anonymi" are not very helpful titles, and there are a good many of these. My general conclusion is that only one or two volumes can be definitely said to have been lost since Thomas James's time.

The Oxford Catalogue (Catalogi Manuscriptorum Angliae et Hiberniae, 1697) furnishes our second complete list. It was one freshly made out for the editors: in its title it professes to enumerate 547 volumes, but the numbering runs from 691 to 1276 (i.e. 586 items). It is one of the fullest and best of the Cambridge catalogues in the volume, and includes, as I have said, the collections of Moore and Knight. A survey of its arrangement will not be without interest.

The first division, headed Ex Donatione Vetere, is divided into subjects, viz.:

1. Libri Theologici (691-845).
 - (a) Bibles, Commentaries, Sermons.
 - (b) Patres et Scriptores antiqui.
 - (c) Scholastici, Summistae, Casuistae.
 - (d) Alii libri Theologici et Miscellanei.
2. Jurisconsulti, vel Libri de Jure tam Ciuili quam Canonico (846-934).
3. Historici (935-944).
4. Libri de Medicina (945-979).
 - (a) Graece conscripti ex donatione Jo. Caii Fundatoris.
 - (b) Libri Latine conscripti.
5. Libri Philosophici (980-1064).
 - (a) Physici vel de Philosophia naturali.
 - (b) Ethici et Politici.
 - (c) Logici.
 - (d) Mathematici et Chemici etc.
 - (e) Rhetorici, Etymologici, Grammatici etc.

6. Catalogus Librorum MSS. ex donatione Mag. More quondam socii huius Collegii (1065-1211, in classes A to E).
7. A Catalogue of Manuscripts in Heraldry given to the College by Dr John Knight, Sergeant Chirurgeon to King Charles II (1212-1276).

The portion of the collection which corresponds to that catalogued by James shows 374 items as against his 324—an increase of 50. We must allow for at least two double descriptions (no. 943 = no. 1064 and 944 = 1059), several wrong divisions of volumes, and a few cases of duplicates put under one number: speaking broadly, we find that the increase is accounted for by gifts subsequent to the year 1600. One volume of the older collection (no. 885, Jo. Andreae apparatus etc.) is perhaps missing. Of Moore's gifts four are not forthcoming. One of them has made its way to the University Library (it is now Ff. 3. 33): the other three were missing in 1760¹, as I learn from a paper written in that year which is preserved in the Library.

A glimpse of the collection as it was (or was not) in the early years of the eighteenth century is afforded to us in Uffenbach's Merkwürdige Reisen. The passage is quoted and commented upon by Dr Venn (III. 189). Uffenbach mentions several manuscripts, but has nothing very illuminating to say about them.

I know of no other document which requires to be mentioned until we come to the publication of the catalogue by J. J. Smith, Fellow and some time Librarian, in 1849². The undertaking of such a work at a time when medieval things were, to say the least, little studied by Cambridge men, seems to me so praiseworthy that I have little inclination to dwell on the defects of the book. Besides, I am in this volume attempting more than Mr Smith, and perhaps achieving less in proportion than he did, so that to pass strictures upon him might be not only ungenerous but imprudent. There is no doubt that his book might be better, and that it leaves room for a fuller work, which room I am trying to fill: but there is also no doubt that it has been of very great use to many students, and to myself among them.

² See Venn II. 189.

Besides the catalogue, Mr Smith issued, in 1853, a small set of lithographed facsimiles from the manuscripts, which are both carefully done and well selected.

Notices of the patristic manuscripts are to be found in Dr Schenkl's Bibliotheca Patrum Latinorum Britannica (2717–2809). I have incorporated the references he gives to Migne's Patrologia.

For a very full and interesting account of the Library—both building and contents—I must refer the reader to Dr Venn (III. 189–195).

* Under no. 271 Smith states that 271=477 in his Catalogue. This is wrong; it corresponds to 478, hence confusion. Further, there is no manuscript in Smith numbered 479: this number I assign to the Codex Justiniani in my Catalogue. It stands in the proper place; one number (858 or 859) in Cat. MSS. Angl. lacks any corresponding volume.

† Nos. 943 and 1064 are both descriptions of the same book, no. 249 in Smith, ‡ Nos. 944 and 1059 are both descriptions of no. 514.

SHOWING THE CORRESPONDENCE BETWEEN THE NUMBERS IN SMITH'S CATALOGUE AND THOSE SUBSEQUENTLY ADDED.

NOTE. In recent years the Manuscripts have all been supplied with a second number, differing from Smith's. This second numeration is in red. As Smith's numbers are habitually quoted by Students, I have given them precedence in my Catalogue; but in each case I subjoin the red number, thus 89} (Smith)
171} (red no.)

Lib. i. Blue ground with white dots. At L. a horseman with a book (Justinian) approaching a city on R. A ladder against the wall. A man in the gate with a stone. One on wall with trowel, another in hat.

Lib. ii. Manumission. Half-length figures, one on L. touches a prostrate one with staff. Three look on.

Lib. iii, iv, cut out.

Lib. v. A city in C. attacked by four men in mail, two on each side, and defended by two within.

Lib. vi, cut out.

Lib. vii. Three arches. In C. a man in scarlet mantle and ermine collar, throned with book. Three men on L., two tonsured, three on R., one tonsured (De uerborum obligationibus).

Lib. viii-x, cut out.

Lib. xi. Similar to Lib. vii but smaller. Three tonsured men on L. of central figure. Two men on R., one tonsured. (De appellationibus.)

Lib. xii, cut out.

These pictures, and the initials and grotesques that accompany them, are of interest as being genuine Italian work, but are not particularly beautiful.

Will. Somersham, Venn 1. 3, was master 1412-1416, when he died.

Collation: flyleaves cut out. 1⁸ (wants 1, 3) 2⁸-32⁸ (+ 1).

Manipulus Chronicorum, by Radulphus de Marham.

This MS. (the only extant one of which I can find any notice) was seen by Bale (Index Scriptorum ed. Poole and Bateson, pp. 331, 488) at Gonville Hall; another copy was in the possession of John Meere.

Bale's words are :

Anglus quidam Radulphus de Marham (quem Augustinianum fuisse iudico) nobile opus edidit, scilicet, Manipulum chronicorum. Li. vii (first words) Fratribus religiosis animo tenentibus ecclesie ritum regularem Augustinianum.

Ex domo Jo. Meere et aula Gunwyle.

Tanner quoting Bale and Pits says :

Marham (Radulphus), frater Augustinianus in coenobio Linnensi Cantabrigiae sedulo bonis literis operam dedit et ibi SS. theologiae doctor evasit. Scripsit Manipulum chronicorum lib. vii. "Fratribus religionis animo." Nomen operi huic insigni non addidit, sed in exordio primi libri primorum verborum capitales literae conficiunt Frater Radulphus Marham. (Scripsit quoque) Indices amplos in eadem chronica lib. ii. "Aaron quando nascitur?" Conciones plures, lib. i. Claruit a.d. mcccclxxx. Bale vi. 59, Pits p. 524.

The initials of the opening words quoted by Bale give Frater Ra-. Compare the device used by Ranulph Higden in the Polychronicon and also by Brame of Thetford in his unpublished romance of King Waldeve.

There was a copy of this book in the University Library in 1473 as Mr Poole notes (Bradshaw, Collected Papers, p. 38). The copy before us is imperfect; the text begins in c. 5 of Distinction I of Lib. I on the fall of the angels. In c. 11 is another gap extending to c. 2 of Dist. II.

Contents :

Lib. I treats of the Creation, the habitable globe and the universe, the virtues, arts, etc. John of Salisbury, Henry of Huntingdon, Giraldus, and Ranulph of Chester are among the authors quoted: also Godefridus of Viterbo. It has 8 distinctions and ends with f. 28 a.

Lib. II, f. 28 b, in seven distinctions, gives the history from Adam to the death of Moses. In dist. vi, ch. xi etc. is a long disquisition by the compiler on the interpretation of Shiloh in Gen. xlix, in which he shews a knowledge of Hebrew and quotes various Rabbis and the Jerusalem Talmud.

Lib. III, f. 69 b, in six distinctions, from Joshua to the Captivity.

Lib. IV, f. 118, in eight distinctions, from the Captivity to the Birth of Christ.

Lib. v, f. 195 (in two distinctions), was meant according to the title to extend from the Birth of Christ to Commodus but ends with the Ascension on f. 228*a*.

Index in two and four columns on a page f. 228*b*

The initial is cut out and the first words mutilated.

(de) litera alpha alphabetum et quando litere sunt inuente
l. 1, d. 8, c. 27.

Aaron quando nascitur li. 11. d. vij, c. 17.

Ends with Zorobabel.

Flyleaves at the end cut out: as also the initials to some of the books. Those that remain are handsome.

Ends imperfectly: καὶ μάλιστα χρὴ τοῖσι προσέχειν τὸν νοῦν.

"Finit lib. ii, fol. 65, cod. ald. b li. 22."

III. In a much contracted hand: on smaller paper.

Γαληνοῦ περὶ τῶν Ἱπποκράτους καὶ Πλάτωνος δογμάτων βιβλίον πρῶτον. ἀκέφαλον.

—παμπαν (?). ἀλλὰ κακεῖνου συνεχ τῷ στέρνω.

Marginal note: MS. hunc Jo. Caius edidit Basileae 1544 et latinum fecit in 4^{to}.

Lib. ii, f. 4 b ending καθάπερ καὶ νῦν ἀπέδειξα.

Only a leaf of Lib. iv remains, and no part of Lib. iii.

The fragment of Lib. iv (which is much wormed) goes, according to a marginal note, from fol. ald. 132 b li. 2, usque ad f. 133 b l. 27.

IV. On glossy paper, the same size as the last, in a good small hand.

Fragmentum Galeni de Portis.

Begins in Porta xvii near the beginning

Καὶ βλάβης εἶδον.

Ends in Porta xix (8 lines from the beginning) ἰατροὶ τοῦ κόπτειν τὴν ἄκραν.

por ceo qe vous estes frele etc. Ends

Ey mergrete folie mon quer sanz fauser.

The next two pages are covered with Latin law-notes.

On the following are two letters in French (reversed) addressed to the Margaret of the verses. In the first is a passage in English rhyme:

haue godday nou mergerete wiþ grete loue y þe grete. y wolde we mijten us ofte mete. in halle in chaumbre and in þe strete. wiþ oute blame of þe contr. god ȝeue þat so miȝte hit be.

Fakenham and Lynn are mentioned.

The second letter may perhaps be from Margaret who is, I fear, a nun. The first letter ends: E veez qe vous seez obedient al Abbe al Couent Nomeement al Abbe. Loke nou þat hit so be.

The last leaf is a waste leaf of a Canon Law book, well written.

On the verso, late : Thomas Gallard.

This name Gallard and the interest shown in P. Gaillart suggest that an English relation of the latter owned the book.

It is I think in an English hand throughout. The Fécamp documents suggest a connexion with Steyning in Sussex, which was a cell to Fécamp Abbey. The volume has been examined by M. Paul Meyer.

Vellum, $12\frac{1}{2} \times 8$, ff. 163+6, double columns of 66 lines.
 Cent. xiv, in two fine Italian hands.

At each end is a Papal document, nearly complete.

Collation: a² b², 1¹⁰ or 1¹² (nine left) 2¹²—13¹² 14¹⁰, 2 flyleaves.

The document at the beginning is from Ademarus Roberti, Archdeacon of Coutances, papal chaplain, and causarum auditor to the Chapter of Lincoln, reciting a bull of Benedict XII conferring the Deanery of Lincoln on William of Norwich.

That at the end is from Benedict XII to the Dean of Leon (Legionensi) and Treasurer of Laon (Laudunensi) and Scholasticus of Coutances in favour of the same William.

Professor E. C. Clark has shown that both these refer to Bishop Bateman, and has printed them in full (C. A. S. Proc. 1898, pp. 326 sqq.).

On flyleaf at end :

Tabula martiniana cum repertorio Willⁱ Durant. prec. xxvj^s. viii^d.

Traces of chain-mark at middle top of first leaves.

Contents :

Liber pauperum inter libros cronicarum continens libros vij. Auctor istius libri vocatur Freculfus qui compilauit predictum librum ex dictis et scriptis diuersorum auctorum. A xvth cent. hand adds: credo quod mentiris.

A xvth cent. title (similar but not the same) below.

There are four leaves at the beginning of the book which are somewhat puzzling. The recto of the first was blank and has the title etc. given above. On the verso is a large initial P (red, blue and green: the green has corroded the vellum) and the beginning of the text. The second has genealogies and names of Jewish, Assyrian and Median kings down to the Captivity (beginning of the Fourth age of the world). These leaves are headed Lib. i in an old hand. After them there must be a gap.

The other two are consecutive waste leaves in the same hand as the rest of the MS. and containing matter which recurs in its proper place. The first has on the recto the matter contained in the L. column of ff. 6, 7 to inportuosa (f. 7 a l. 14), then from Germinet terra (f. 8 b col. 2 bottom) to uocari fructum (f. 10 a col. 1 l. 20), the second continues with the matter contained in the L. column of ff. 10-12 a l. 17 quando madefactum.

It is noticeable that this second leaf is an integral part of the first quire (of which it is the first leaf). It has been at a later time pasted into the binding. I number it as A.

At present I conclude that this second pair of leaves should when the MS. is rebound precede the other pair.

Collation: Three loose leaves. 1⁸-19⁸ (wants 6-8).

Contents:

Chronicon siue liber Pauperum.

The two loose leaves at the beginning contain the following:

Promissum tibi opus frater karissime ex multis catholicorum patrum et etiam aliorum dictis collectum et in quoddam corpus redactum ut potui gratia dei adiuuante conclusi.....totum in septem libris partitus sum...One book is devoted to each of the Seven Ages. Duo uero libri de sex dierum operibus a capite positi quasi quedam uia sunt ad subsequens opus etc. Ends: potius quam aliquid utilitatis edere.

Expl. prol.

The text is then split into two columns. The L. is headed

Ex cronicis Hugonis

Sex diebus perfecta est rerum conditio.

The R. begins:

Secundo posita est series annorum secunda septuaginta.

It should be noted that throughout most of the book the columns do not read consecutively but alternately: that is where, on two open pages, we have four columns before us (A, B, C, D) column A is continued not by B but by C, and column B reads on to D. At the bottom of each column is a sign (an obelus or letter or the like) and this is repeated at the top of the column in which the text is continued. These signs resemble in form those which are used for press-marks in the older books which come from Christ Church, Canterbury.

After f. ii is a gap.

f. i begins:

In principio creauit etc. Terra autem erat inanis et uacua.

Then two columns.

L. De celo. Celum uocatum eo quod tanquam celatum.

R. De terra. Terra est in medio mundi regione posita.

Lib. i ends f. 17. De menta. Menta. huius sex genera.

Expl. lib. primus. De quarto die. Inc. lib. ii^{us}.

Dixit quoque deus. Fiant luminaria etc.

De magnitudine solis. Magnitudo solis fortior terra.

Collation: 1⁴ | 2⁸-6⁸ | 7⁴

f. 1 is closely covered with small writing of cent. xii.

ff. 2-4 are written to replace the lost beginning of the treatise, they are in double columns of 56 lines, and must contain the matter of 8 leaves of the original scribe, whose columns are very narrow.

Contents :

Nonus liber Almansoris f. 2

Capitula partis ix sunt lxxx et xvij. De cephalea etc.

Text. Quando cum istis affuerit rubedo.

The original scribe begins on f. 5 and goes on to f. 44 in the

Collation: 1 flyleaf, a⁴ (wants 4) 1⁸-7⁸ 8⁶ | 9⁸-12⁸ 13¹⁰ | 14¹² 15¹² |
 16⁴ | 1 flyleaf.

The modern paging is wrong, but I use it.

There is a flyleaf at each end from a service book of cent. x, xi, written perhaps in Southern France, with neumes. That at the beginning contains part of the Office for St Cecilia, that at the end either the Office for All Saints or part of the Commune Sanctorum.

The flyleaf is followed by three leaves of English writing of cent. xv.

On the first page are miscellaneous receipts beginning imperfectly.

On the next two pages, paragraphs beginning

Malencolia est humor frigidus et siccus.

The next 2½ pages have matter de Laxatiuis.

Laxatium dare conuenit dum luna est in cancro uel pisce.

The impression I derive from these notes is that they are copied from a manuscript in which Michael Scot had written them. The mistakes seem to me to show that they cannot be autographs of Scot. I do not think that other copies of them have been noticed.

Aug. 18, 1610.		Will. Boswell.

At end (xv):

prec. xiiis. iiij^l.
 anne tottyssherst.

Old binding, rough skin over boards, double strap and pin fastening gone.

Collation: a⁴ (1 stuck to cover) 1⁸ 2⁴ 3⁸-9⁸.

The lower margins of the leaves have suffered from some liquid and are torn and damaged.

Contents:

 ff. 67, 68 blank.

133.
73.

C. M. A. 1210

Paper (2 vellum flyleaves), 9 × 6, ff. 156 + 2, 28, 39 etc. lines to a page. Cent. xiv, xv, clearly written.

Given by W. Moore.

Collation: a¹² (1-10 gone) b¹² (wants 1) c¹² (wants 4, 11, 12) d¹² (wants 12) e¹² (wants 2, 11) f¹² (wants 2, 4, 5, 12) g¹² (wants 1) h¹² (wants 3, 12?) i¹⁴ k¹² (wants most of 2) l¹² m⁴ n¹⁰ (wants 1, 7, 8) o¹⁰ p¹² q¹² (12 mut.).

Two vellum flyleaves of cent. xiii, the second mutilated, with papal (?) rescripts concerning the Cistercian order.

Contents :

1. ?Jac. de Vitriaco.
Tract on the Holy Land, Mahomet etc. Begins imperfectly tres digitos machometus erexisset f. 1
The first beginning of a chapter is the eighth, on p. 5, Quendam autem ex dicipulis machometi loco eius elegerunt.
c. 120 ends p. 141: puluerem autem retinet et abscondit quemadmodum salomon ait...
pp. 142-144 are covered with paragraphs (theological) in a small hand.
2. Auctoritates et sententiae Bibliarum Joh. Calderini . . . 145
Seriem huius tabule continentis auctoritates (Aaron—Zizania).
Ends p. 282: Expl. tabula auctoritatum et sententiarum biblie que inducuntur in compilacionibus decretorum et decretalium compile per Joh. Calderini decretorum doctorem. A. d.
m^{mo}, ccccviiiij.
3. A scholastic tract without title 283
Utrum caritas infusa viatori possit intendi uel remitti.
Ends imperfectly, p. 306.

134.
74.

C. M. A. 926

Vellum, 9 × 6, ff. 151 + 4, 60 lines to a page. Cent. xiii, 2nd half, closely but well written.

Old binding, skin over boards, clasp gone.

On the flyleaf the inscription (xv):

Iste est liber W. Baly (erasure) ex leg....

Collation: a² (1 stuck to cover) 1⁸ 2¹⁰ (10 canc.) 3¹² 4¹² (2 canc.) 5¹²-9¹² 10⁸ (+ a slip) 11⁸-14⁸ 15¹⁴ (1, 13, 14 canc.), 2 flyleaves.

There is an old foliation running from 74 to 179 and then from 1 to 43. It is not quite correct.

The two flyleaves at the end are a bit of an inventory of plate belonging to a nobleman, of cent. xv, in English. The ends of the lines mutilated. The document was a roll written on one side only.

There is more than one mention of a "skochen of my lordes armes," once "quarterle with þe litell skochen þerinne," once of "my ladies armes" also "vi kuppes of þe same soort abiding in England and alle buth of þe (?) iiij dosen.....þat weren boght at Paris": also of something "þat was maister Richardz."

In the margin on L. are the ends of several words and names. At top (Cel)larium, (? Lan)gley, subsequently "G. karbir" more than once.

If I am right in my guess that Langley is the place indicated, it seems natural that King's Langley should be meant, where there was a royal palace.

Psalter	13
With Antiphons, Invitatories, Hymns, Capitula etc. for Sarum use.
Litany	315
Vigils of the Dead	335

Prayer: O bone Ihesu	350
Ends p. 351: reddamus omni tempore. Amen.
p. 352 is blank.

The Kalendar is of ordinary Sarum type, but on Jan. 17 we have Sancti Antonii Conf. et Abb. principale festum ix lect. in blue. On Mar. 17 Transl. S. Antonii conf. et Abb. duplex festum ix lect. in red: and on June 11 Inuencio S. Antonii in red.

The Invention of St Antony is that said to have occurred in 529. The Translation is the translation to Vienne in France. I conjecture that the Psalter was written for a house or for a member of the Order of St Antony of Vienne (founded in 1095) of which there were at most only two houses in England. One was in Threadneedle Street in London, and was founded by Henry III in 1231 in place of an old Jewish synagogue. The other is said to have been at Hereford. The London house was given by Richard II to Michael de la Pole, and later became the property of the Dean and Canons of Windsor.

The Litany is of ordinary Sarum type. The full Sarum form for the several days of the week follows.

The book is a very fine specimen of fifteenth century English illumination. Besides a multitude of small decorative initials it has the following more important decorations:

f. 13. Beatus uir. Border of pink, blue and green foliage and flower-work entwined with gold. Initial. Red ground with gold pattern in lozenges. David old, crowned, in blue and ermine seated playing harp. Open book on R.

f. 55. Dominus illuminatio. Border. Initial: red ground with gold flourishing. David, as before, kneels facing R. and pointing to his eye. In a rayed cloud on R. Christ, half-length in blue.

f. 86. Dixi custodiam. Border. Initial ground as no. 2. David stands full face pointing to his mouth: background rocky, with trees.

f. 112. Dixit insipiens. Border. Initial ground as no. 2. David seated on L. Before him the fool with short hair, scarlet tunic, vandyked, over pink and blue garment, pink hose. He leans on stick and points upwards.

f. 139. Saluum me fac. Border. Initial ground like no. 1. David nude, crowned, stands in stream, praying. Christ in cloud on R.

f. 174. Exultate. Border. Initial pink ground with gold pattern. David seated plays with two hammers on four bells hung on a bar on R.

f. 206. Cantate. Border. Initial ground as no. 6. Four clerks in albs and copes (pink, scarlet and blue, with gold dots on them) singing from book open on wooden lectern on R.

f. 242. Dixit dominus. Border. Initial pink and gold ground. On L. the Son in pink mantle, on R. the Father in blue robe with orb, seated on a seat draped in scarlet and gold. Between them the Dove, head downwards.

Ps. cxviii. (cxix.) 1, f. 254 has a partial border, also cxviii. 33. Legem pone, f. 270. Defecit, f. 276. Mirabilia, f. 281. Vigils of the dead, f. 335. Prayer of St Thomas, f. 348.

Collation : a² 1¹⁰—7¹⁰ b².

On f. i is a good border of 3 sides, of white branch-work on ground of pink, blue and green. In the lower margin are two amorini supporting a wreath in which a shield has been rudely sketched. Initial in gold.

Contents :

1. Apulegii Mandurensis Platonici Prefatio in librum de deo
Socratis incipit f. 1
Qui me uoluistis dicere ex tempore
—Syrenas audiuit nec accessit.
2. Hermes trimegistus ex greco in latinum per Apulegium tra-ductus 18
Asclepius. Asclepius <is> te pro sole mihi est deus —et sine animalibus cenam.
3. Apulegii mandurensis de habitudine doctrinaque et natiuitate platonis philosophi liber inc. feliciter 44 b
Platoni habitudo corporis.
Ends f. 56 a corruptly :
Venenum enim uero huic exitium copo (l. corporis).
(Cf. Apuleius, Hildebrand ed. minor p. 212 : Lib. I.)
4. Continues without a break into the tract

De Philosophia Morali f. 56

—moralis philosophie caput est. faustine fili.

(l. c. p. 212, Liber II.)

Ends imperfectly f. 70 (71) b: Eis quippe utrisque cum natura inuasit eandem (l. c. c. XXV. p. 226).

The MS. is said to belong to the same family as a Florentine MS. F, in Lütjohann's edition.

C. M. A. 1116

203.

Vellum, $9\frac{3}{8} \times 6\frac{1}{4}$, ff. 72, 30 lines to a page. Cent. xii, xiii, very finely written. The first initial in gold.

Given by W. Moore.

2 fo. Clausus adhuc.

Binding, white skin over flat boards, strap and pin-fastening gone.

On the 2nd cover was an old inscription, cut out. Below it is one of cent. xvi:

Vita S. Edouardi Regis per Aluredum Riualensem.

The first flyleaf was a leaf of a Gallican liturgy in uncials of cent. viii (now in show-case) "of a type not otherwise known," edited by Bickell, Zeitschr. f. Kath. Theol. VI. 370. On it is the mark cclxxxiiij L(iber) of cent. xiii.

On the remaining flyleaf is an erased inscription (xv):

Vita (?) Reg. Edwardi...ΔR

Versific^o. vita s̄ci Edwardi versifice.

On f. i at top is an erased inscription (xiv?):

...vita s̄ci (?) Edwardi versifice...

The ΔR on the flyleaf looks like a Christ Church Canterbury mark: but perhaps a Westminster origin is more probable.

Also:

N. Brigami liber est, perlege, claude, vale.

Nicholas Brigam (d. 1539) was the man who erected Chaucer's tomb in Westminster Abbey.

Below this is the name Lumley. John Lord Lumley (d. 1609) was the owner of a magnificent Library of which the greater part was purchased by Prince Henry, son of James I. There is a catalogue of it in Trinity College Library (O. 4. 38) in which this book appears under Historici, E. Quarto.

Collation : 1¹⁰ (wants 10) 2⁸-9⁸ (wants 6).
fol. 1 is a flyleaf.

Lib. VI, f. 57.

Ends f. 69 a:

Noster equus uictor cursus donandus honore

Percipiat braciis debita dona SIBI.

It is a versification of Aelred of Rievaulx's prose Life, not necessarily by him. Another (inferior) MS. of cent. xiii is in the Vatican (Reg. 489). Extracts from both are printed by Dr Luard in Lives of Edward the Confessor (Rolls Series), p. 381: see also p. xxx, and a note by Dr Luard in the MS.

ff. 69 b, 70 a are blank.

On f. 70 b is a letter of Urban VII to Baldwin Abp of Canterbury and the English bishops announcing his election to the Papacy.

Dat. Verone Kal. Dec. (1185).

71 a is blank. On 71 b (xiv):

Commemoraciones Dominice passionis Facte a d. Johanne papa xx^{mo}. ii^o. post horas canonicas dicende qui autem dixerit .c. dies indulgentie...optinebit. Post matutinas

Patris sapientie ueritas diuina

Deus homo captus est hora matutina etc.

See Venn III. 194 for a notice of another fragment found in this MS., a portion of the Vulgate in a Hiberno-Saxon hand of the 8th or 9th century.

Vellum, $7\frac{3}{4} \times 5\frac{3}{4}$, ff. 40 + 9, in double columns of 30 lines.
Cent. xiv, xv, clearly written.

Binding original, red skin over wooden boards, clasp gone.

On p. 83 in a hand of cent. xv, xvi, is :

Questo libro e mio zouan Argentinein¹,

and in the last cover, on a scroll,

Ion Argentein (the surname written on an erasure).

Below is another erased inscription :

Constat Joh.....

and also :

Emptus est iste liber a vidua anno Christi 1491 Wyndesore...mense decembris per me Joh. Argentein.

The owner was John Argentein, D.D. and M.D., Provost of King's College 1501-1507, and Physician to Arthur Prince of Wales. The printed book F. 54. 26 in this library (Nicholaus de Lyra) also belonged to him, and has the same Italian inscription. The presence of this indicates that Argentein had visited Italy, and the form Zouan for Giovanni points to Venice. Some of his (autograph) medical collections are in MS. Ashmole 1437, and a poetical Act of his is in Cott. MS. Julius F. 7 (Corp. Chr. Coll. Oxf. 255). He is buried in King's College Chapel : see Cooper, Athen. Cantabr. I. 12.

- 1211. Sanctus Simon martirizatus est in insula vecte apud arefeld. et xii kal. April.
- 1230. Hoc anno natus fuit viii^o kl. Maii R. de Hareslade (added).

Several other births and deaths of members of this family are noted by different hands, the last being the birth of Robert son of Robert in 1299. Bishops of Winchester are noted, and also the coming of the justices in eyre to Winchester. Several hands have made entries. The original scribe has entered the years down to 1340 but notes no events (I think) after 1250. The last note in a later hand is on 1308.

The entry of the dedication of Sorewell Chapel and the presence of Sorewell accounts in the volume make it more than probable that the scribe or owner was connected with Shorwell in the Isle of Wight. This is confirmed by the note about St Simon's martyrdom at Arefeld in Wight in 1211. I have nowhere else encountered this saint.

The connexion between this MS. and Mm. I. 27 in the University Library deserves further investigation.

 Propicie.
 no. 35 (the last) is Religiosis. Cum egrederetur loth de sodomis 90 b
 It ends imperfectly.
 I do not detect any English or French portions in these sermons, nor any clue to the place where they were compiled.

III. In a small pointed hand of cent. xiii.

Summa qui bene presunt 91

Attributed to Willelmus de Montibus and to Richard Wethersett.

It is a compilation largely from the works of the former, who is mentioned: the latter was Abp. of Canterbury and died in 1231. It contains many memorial verses, and treats of the Creed, Lord's Prayer, Sacraments, Commandments, Deadly Sins, Works of Mercy, etc.

In this copy are a good many blank pages, and some insertions, viz.:

f. 111*a* blank. On 111*b* are verses:

De episcopis.

Corde gementi nate (uoce) trementi mente libenti pontificum funus deferem si mihi munus uel breue donassent uel pro se flere rogassent etc.

De Abbatibus.

Abbatess gnaros fles lector in ordine claros etc.

De fratribus.

Exemplo fratrum tantorum si sapiamus etc.

Also:

a. Participes patrie celestis sunt sine fine etc.

b. Cur caro tam cara • breue uiuere, finis amara etc.

Ending l. 37. Et miser absque mora te uertas ad meliora.

f. 112 b blank. Also ff. 114, 115 b, 116 a, 117 b.

On f. 120 a sqq. are verses in another hand.

a. Missus ad egregiam gabriel tulit ista mariam.

(l. 40.) Ut saluet mundum. fiat michi uerba secundum.

b. Ordo monasticus ecclesiasticus esse solebat . . . f. 120 b

...

(l. 30.) Spiritualia querere pascua ne moriatur.

This is in the metre of Bernardus Morlanensis de Contemptu

Mundi but the lines are not in Wright's text.

c. Hac non audita sint ista potencia uita (on the Birth of Christ) 121 b

(l. 23) Proque suo posse sacra soluunt munera prosse.

d. Agnus mansuetus et mitis in omnibus esto.

e. Sunt tria gaudia laus sapientia gloria rerum . . . 122

f. Dic homo responde quid sit homo cur sit et unde and other miscellaneous verses to 122 b.

ff. 127, 128 almost wholly blank: also 130 b, 136 a, 142 b, 143 a, 146 b, 147 b, 160 b.

The text ends on 169 b:

Hiis igitur circa ministerium sacerdotum tractatis finem facere 236.

Vellum, $5\frac{3}{4} \times 4$, ff. 78, various numbers of lines to the page. Cent. xiii, in several hands, some very minute.

Collation: 1⁶ 2¹⁴ 3¹² 4¹² 5⁶ 6¹⁴ 7¹⁴.

The book consists of a number of apparently disjointed quires: no. 1 in a large hand has no old foliation; no. 2 in a smaller hand is paged from 23 to 50; no. 3 in a hand more like that of no. 1 is unpagged; no. 4 (resembling no. 2) is most irregularly paged from 222 to 229 then 330 to 335; no. 5 in double columns and a marvellously minute hand is unpagged; no. 6 (resembling no. 2) is unpagged up to the 8th leaf, then from 336 to 339 and 440 to 443; no. 7 (also resembling no. 2) is paged from 84 to 101, but the order of the leaves numbered 91–94 is confused.

At the bottom of f. 20 an inscription has been cut off. The first word “Watyr” remains. At the bottom of f. 21 (1st leaf of quire 3) is a xivth cent. inscription:

Iste liber est fratris G. de Routhberi accomodatus fratri Raulpho de Dundee.

Contents:

The main contents of the book are sermons and notes for sermons.

It begins:

Sermo de S. Andrea 58	f. 1
Abneget se ipsum et tollat crucem.
Dominica 2 ^a (?) de aduentu	4
Gaudete in domino.
Dom. in quinquagesima	5
Caritas pociens est.
Dom. 2 ^a in xl ^{ma}	5 b
Leuantes oculos suos neminem uiderunt.
Quire 2 contains miscellaneous notes for sermons, beginning
Cum nemo repente fit summus	7
On f. 8 is a paragraph, de beato Edmundo, the text of which makes it clear that the King and Martyr, not the Archbishop, is meant.
The presence of this note may be taken as a slight indication that the book is East Anglian.
Quire 3 contains sermons and notes.
Mihi autem absit gloriari	21

At the bottom of f. 24 is some rhyming English, very hard to read.

Some of the writing in this quire is exceedingly bad.

Quire 4 begins

Si consurrexisti cum christo f. 33 and contains sermons.

Quire 5 (double columns).

Ego nox clamantis in deserto 45

On f. 45 b a sermon (Puer natus est nobis) headed Johannes de Herlinton.

On f. 47 b Sermo in natali domini.

Transeamus usque betleem, headed

Fr. W. de Hēwlle.

At the bottom of this page is some English (xiii)

miste wid hute ricste • wodnesse of unele

ricste wit hute micste

micste and ricste wit hute helste • sorful wicste.

The remaining quires contain miscellaneous notes and sermons.

Two pen-trials of cent. xv occur in the last quire.

(1) Nouerint uniuersi per presentes me Thomam Appilton in
Com. Suff. etc.

(2) In dei nomine amen quarto die mensis Julii a. d. etc. et anno mostly in one hand, the larger size of which is exceedingly good.

Given by W. Moore.

From St Alban's Abbey, as appears by many of the verses contained in the volume. It is closely connected with Abbot John Whetham.

Collation: a⁴ | 1⁸ 2¹⁰ (7 canc.) 3⁸ 4⁸ (7 canc.) 5⁸ 6¹⁰ 7⁸ 8⁸ (8 canc.)
 9⁸ 10⁸ 11⁸ (wants 1-4) 12⁸ | two quires gone? | 13⁸ (6 canc.) 14⁸-
 21⁸ | b⁴.

There is a old foliation (xv) running to f. 182, and a modern pagination, which includes the flyleaves and makes 350 pp.

Original binding of skin over pads of leather.

The flyleaves at each end are portions of four leaves of a large church music book (xv) with music on a five-line stave. The fragments at the beginning refer to St Margaret (the words "feruidus olibrius" occur). Those at the end are bits of the Nicene Creed.

On the margin are two quatrains in the main hand of the book.

- (1) Conuenit offa leuis prior prudencia scandit
 Contius et neuis: abbas misteria mandit.
 Cum ridet obstauis • nunc sunt maroia laudes Ante prior deditus precavotes ut arcia comes which I do not pretend to construe.

- (2) Qui regis intende rota fortuna cauende (or canende)
 En rex procerus regum richard recolendus
 Ecce per auriloquos victus cupidosque bilingues
 En em seruient (sic) fraude peremptus erat.

The bulk of the book consists of articles on Theological subjects, or sermons, which were perhaps intended originally to fill the whole. Large gaps however were left between them, and these have been filled—mostly by the original scribe—with three series of insertions.

1. Medical Receipts.
2. Formulae for official letters.
3. Verses.

Some at least of the theological articles are extracted from the Manipularius of John Whethamstede.

There is a partial table of contents on ff. 7, 8 (old numbering), but it only reaches to f. 64. The contents of the lacuna between ff. 97 and 112 remain unknown.

Vellum, $5\frac{3}{8} \times 3\frac{3}{4}$, ff. 87 + 4, 16–21 lines to a page. Cent. xiv, well written in red and black.

Original binding, skin over wooden boards, clasp gone.

Given by W. Moore.

Collation: 2 flyleaves, one quire gone (?) 1¹⁰ 2¹² 3⁸–10⁸ (+ 1).

The flyleaves at the beginning are part of a leaf of a service-book (xv) with music on four-line stave. Words from the Lamentations. A bit of a xiv–xvth cent. MS. at the other end.

Contents:

English Commentary on the Apocalypse. The text in red.

Begins imperfectly

He þat overcometh he schalle not have no drede of þe secound dethe.

The saut of false men Be token^t the saut of couetyse.

Ends f. 86^b: bodi and soule and dwel wyth him wiþ oute ende. Amen.

Here endiþ þe Apocalips.

It does not seem to be Wycliffite.

Vellum, $5 \times 3\frac{1}{2}$, ff. 5 + 391, 24 lines to a page. Cent. xv (first half?) in a good hand. Partial border on f. 1 of text.

Perhaps given by W. Moore.

On the flyleaf (xvi, xvii):

24. Rosarium Theologiae.

At the beginning part of a leaf of a xviith cent. MS. (Civil Law): a mutilated page of xvth cent. writing forms another flyleaf.

Collation: 5 flyleaves, 1¹² 2¹² (12 canc.)—18¹² (wants 8, 9) 19¹² 20¹² 21¹² (wants 4—9) 22¹²—34¹² (wants 5—10).

Contents:

Rosarium Theologiae, attributed to Alanus de Rupe Scissa . f. 1

Absolucio dicitur tripliciter sc. absolucio auctoritativa etc.

The last article is Zelus ending f. 389^b:

omne opus prauum.

The last two leaves are blank.

C. M. A. 1140

Vellum, $5\frac{1}{4} \times 4\frac{1}{4}$, ff. 250, double columns of 25 lines. Cent. xiv early, well written. The leaves at the beginning are much damaged.

Given by W. Moore.

Collation: 1¹²—16¹² 17¹⁰ 18¹²—21¹².

Contents:

1. Title mutilated.

Inc. liber ca..... qui dicitur.

Secretum meum michi f. 1

Quoniam <diminu>te sunt ueritates a filiis hominum.

There is no numbering of chapters after 83, but the text continues without a break. The last rubric is de quadruplici pace.

On f. 79^b a column is blank, the text ends:

quod in solis esse uirtutibus diffinitur, sed medium quiddam.

2. A collection of sermons f. 80

Fili recordare quod accepisti bona in uita tua.

Christus Ihesus quos unguento curare non potuit sepe ferro incidit.

The 2nd sermon is In eleccione prelati.

Faciamus hominem.

On f. 88^b:

Sermo die S. Eadmundi martiris.

Sagitte tue infixæ sunt michi.

The next are on SS. Nicholas, Augustine, Martin, Katherine...

Lucy, Thomas Becket, Agnes.

On f. 187 is a sermon on S. Eadmund Confessor.

On f. 209^b Sermo de aduentu secundum patrem H. predicatorem.

On f. 225 is an English quotation.

Vnderstond man ymaked thu were of urther and mid dure thinge thu were iboft.

On f. 227. Sermo ad predicatores in oxonia.

Preparate in occursum domini dei tui.

The next is secundum fr. Hugonem predicatorem.

Legatum misit ad gentes.

The remaining sermons to the end are on the Advent.

On the last leaf is a late note on prayer.

The collection seems to be Dominican and English.

What follows seems to be a collection of extracts for use in sermons, and also one or two sermons.

pp. 317 sqq. have suffered from damp; there is a hole through the middle.

On p. 317 begins a set of grammatical and other verses, badly written:

Singnat personam per loca causam

Per noctem per me per rus per prelia ludo.

On p. 320 are rhyming verses:

Ab armatis anglicis scoticos uicturis
Curritur ad scociam suis armis duris
Que nunc sub compendio uobis audituris
Compileare studeo totis meis curis.

A description of the arms follows.

On p. 322 Prose.

loci priore et omnibus confratribus ibidem perhendinantibus hec audientibus.

In primis quod prior fratribus infirmis sit misericors et omnibus confratribus affabilis, et intersit horis canonicis nisi arduis prepeditus fuerit negociis.
Item quod non afficiat confratres suos ibidem perhendinantes uerbis contumeliosis coram secularibus set delinquentes loco et tempore quibus decet cum omni mansuetudine et paciencia corripiat. Item quod honeste et curialiter procuret confratribus ab eodem licentiatis per tres dies si nescesse fuerit uel minus si per terram in equis et aliis, si per aquam in cibo et potu et aliis necessariis.

He is to receive the friends and relatives of monks kindly and lodge them in the town or priory. His own family are to behave themselves and for the future are not to dine in the refectory except between Easter Day and Rogation tide. Guests are not to dine in the refectory 'nisi fuerint honeste persone quas placet priori uel eius uices gerenti ad suam mensam secum habere.'

The prior is to have the clothes and shoes of the monks repaired when necessary 'per celerarium suum sumtibus suis.'

Martinus. Adrianus. Rogerus Abbas. Rogerus. Nicholaus.*
 The italicised names seem to be additions, very possibly by the same hand.
15. Psalter, single lines, in another hand 252
 There are handsome initials in red blue and green.
 Ps. 150 is followed by Cantica of Isaiah and Hezekiah.
 At the end of this last is, in red capitals,
 PSALTERIVM AVGVSTINI
 which may mean that the monk who owned it was named Augustine (there is one in the list above) or else that the text was copied from an old psalter supposed to be St Augustine—such as Vespasian A. 1.
 f. 297 is blank.
16. In double columns, in a hand like that of ff. 64 etc.

A collection of "proueria" from Latin poets, preceded by some miscellaneous verses (imperfect) f. 306

 3. A second copy, in a xvth cent. hand, of the Insurrexio, no. 17, without title 250
 On the verso a note, Extraxit B. ⊕ (i.e. Blomefield).

In Grace Book A, p. 4 (1455-6), Herryson is fined for non-inception in Arts: p. 43 (1463-4) for non-inception in Medicine.

He is sometimes said to have been Chancellor in 1465, and to have produced a book, De Fundatoribus Academiae Cantabrigiensis.
 Caius (De Antiq. Cantab., p. 44) refers to him as an authority.
 But I cannot find that he did more than transcribe the Historiola.

It is probably to the MS. before us that Caius refers (l. c. p. 38) when he offers to produce copies of the Historiola that shall be old, on parchment, illuminated, and flavi or russi.

There is a later copy of it in no. 194.

The two flyleaves at the end are the greater part of four leaves of a MS. of cent. xiii-xiv, in double columns of 37 lines, in French verse. Twelve columns are intact, and of the four others the first half of the lines remains in two, and the ends of the lines in the other two.

The subject is mainly the last judgment. One paragraph begins:

Beauz fiz vos mei demandez outrage
Li apostle furent mout sage ffunde en sen et en sauer
Eus ne poeient ceo sauer.
Il requistrent nostre seignur
Ke il les assensat de ceo iour.

Again:

Iosaphat beaus douz amiz

There are some odd decorations: on f. 15 is a marginal ornament, in colour, ending in something like a pine-cone. Also, in many parts of the book the letters in the top line are carried upwards and adorned with pretty patterns and with grotesque heads.

A very much larger Register of Spalding (once the property, as this was, of John Oldfeild) was in the Earl of Ashburnham's Collection (Appendix, no. 237). I believe it is now in the British Museum.

p. 264 is blank: a blank leaf follows.

The interest of this MS. has been fully shewn by Dr J. Rendel Harris in The Leicester Codex, p. 10 sqq., where a facsimile of p. 113 is also given.

I note the following points:

The text of pp. 3, 4 has been transliterated in Latin letters interlineally in what I think is an Italian hand.

The original scribe has numbered the leaves of the first half of the quire (as in the Trinity Psalter) thus φύλλον α (β γ etc.) τοῦ αὐτοῦ (βου etc.). The quires are also numbered in Arabic numerals. An old hand has written one or two Latin beginnings of Psalms in Greek letters, e.g. p. 3 sqq., Κουμ υἱοκαρεμ, Δομηγε νε ιν φουρορε, δμνε δεους.

Between pp. 78, 9 is inserted a small sheet of paper with notes of various readings in this MS. (xvii, xviii).

On p. 97 in margin is the name "bryngkelei" well written.

On p. 113 (1st leaf of quire 9) is this note:

here xwld be non qweyre off y^e number eff. 8.

ffor here ys all quod ffr. Rc. Brynkeley.

On p. 190 is more transliteration, and also plainer copies of several words obscurely written.

The flyleaf at end is a double leaf of accounts (xiv) belonging to the Grey Friars, Cambridge. It is printed, facsimiled and discussed by Rendel Harris, l.c. p. 23, who also has collected information respecting Richard Brinkley, who was Provincial of the Franciscans in England early in cent. xvi.

The book was bound, according to Rendel Harris, in the Grey Friars' Convent at Cambridge.

It is no. 206 among Holmes and Parsons' MSS. of the LXX.
